

The queen of islands, and the king of rivers

An oppressed nation stands in the gates of our confederation and pleads with God and man for liberty, Borne down by foreign soldiers, for whose support she is taxed, until almost the necessaries of life are doubled and deprived of freedom of speech, of press, and forbidden to discuss or even petition for relief, and overwhelmed by importations of slaves from Africa whose presence she does not desire but who are held upon her disarmed citizens in perpetual threat Cuba has reached that point of suffering in which it becomes suicide and crime to remain passive Cuba belongs to the Cubans and they have a right higher than human conventions a right directly from the throne of Divine Justice to govern themselves on the soil they give to civilization by their intelligence, and to utility by their toil Not to admit this axiom is heresy to our republican creed, and we are false to the faith of our Revolutionary sages if we deny to others the liberties which they bleed to leave us our heritage If Washington acted right and Jefferson reasoned well Cuba cannot be wrong in following their example Most of the Creoles of the Island are republicans at heart, and the press and institutions of the Union are the object of their hatred.
