

This map is a high resolution reproduction of a 1:50,000 scale tactical map used by ground, air and naval coastal and riverine forces during the war in Vietnam. The reproduction is printed on a 22.5 inch X 29 inch sheet of 32 pound bright bond paper in the same colors ( green, blue, red and black ) as the originals. This paper is a better quality than the paper used to print the original maps. While these reprinted maps can be folded and carried, they are delivered rolled and are intended for reference use. The name of the map sheet, the reference number, the latitude and longitude of the map edges, the edition number and the year of data collection are all listed in the individual descriptions. Also listed are the countries involved, provinces in South and North Vietnam and major bodies of water such as the South China Sea. For user reference, the map name and reference number of adjacent maps are also listed. Vietnamese words in these descriptions are written without the diacritics used in the Vietnamese language. Words printed on the map reproductions are exactly as printed on the original maps. The map includes tactical grid lines every 1,000 meters ( 1 kilometer ). Each side of the map has slightly more than 27 metric divisions producing more than 729 squares each of one square kilometer in area. Place names and political divisions are shown as they existed during the the war and may have changed subsequently. This adds to the historical value of these documents. Using the best available maps to make these reproductions, a few of the original sheets have minor damage including frayed edges and minor stains. Each or these flaws are described in the listings of individual maps. All of the problems involve the margins or legend areas of the maps. The actual map images are undamaged. Maps in both South and North Vietnam are available in this set.
